INFORGRAPHIC

100-word Assignment reflection.

This assignment challenged me to think about my identity and how it can be communicated visually. Designing a personal logomark required me to simplify who I am into a clear and meaningful symbol.

I learned that design is not only about appearance but about intention and communication. The constraints, such as limited colours, fonts, forced me to focus on clarity and purpose.

Creating the infographic helped me organise my values, goals, and identity as a student. Integrating my GitHub profile also made me think about presenting my work professionally. Overall, this assignment helped me understand how design can communicate identity in a simple but powerful way.
